ABSTRACT

A method for use in a Web Services system includes providing a Web Services Directory having object classes and attributes and defining attributes of a specific type which correspond to a specific object class.